Dear Colleague

On behalf of the Association of University Professors in Ophthalmology Program Director's Council, it is our pleasure to welcome you to Sarasota and the 9th Educating the Educators Meeting. A focus of this year's meeting will include a presentation on the ACGME initiative of Milestones in Graduate medical education and we have included a workshop that would allow us, as program directors, to help frame the training milestones for residents training in Ophthalmology. As in recent years, we have included free paper sessions that include fellow program directors and occasional ophthalmologists in training. In addition, updates from the ACGME Duty Hours Task Force, the Ophthalmology Matching Program and feedback from last year's workshop will be presented.

We thank the participants for their enthusiasm and effort in preparing their presentations and in providing us with up-to-date information and new ideas in the areas of curricular development in Ophthalmology. We also wish to extend a special welcome to the individuals of the AUPO Consortium of Medical Student Educators who are a new category of associate members to the AUPO. As we reconnect with old friends and meet new ones, we hope that this program will continue to promote the exchange of ideas between ophthalmic educators and continue to foster collaboration and collegiality between our programs.

Again, welcome to Educating the Educators 2010.

Sincerely,

Richard A. Harper, MD

&

Andreas K Lauer, MD
